

Lynn Lingafelter, RN, MBA, FACHE

Deaconess Health System Chief Operating Officer

Lynn joined Deaconess Health System in 1987. She holds a diploma from Deaconess School of Nursing, a bachelor's degree from the University of Southern Indiana, and a Master of Business Administration from Colorado State University. She is a Fellow of the American College of Healthcare Executives.

Lynn is a native of Poseyville, Indiana. Prior to being named COO, Lynn worked in various capacities within Deaconess Health System, including Vice President of Operations and Director of Emergency, Surgical and Radiology services. Lynn's civic and community involvement includes serving on the boards of the Tristate Better Business Bureau and the United Way of Southwestern Indiana. She also serves on the Warrick County Economic Advisory Council.

ABOUT DEACONESS HEALTH SYSTEM:

Deaconess Health System is a premiere provider of health care services in southwestern Indiana, western Kentucky and southeastern Illinois. The system—based in Evansville, Indiana—includes seven hospitals: Deaconess Midtown Hospital, The Women's Hospital, Deaconess Gateway Hospital, Deaconess Cross Pointe, The Heart Hospital at Deaconess Gateway, The Orthopedic and Neuroscience Hospital, and Encompass Health Deaconess Rehabilitation Hospital. Also included in the system are Deaconess Clinic—a multi-specialty group practice with 21 locations and more than 100 providers, a managed care network of preferred doctors and hospitals, an accountable care organization (ACO), and a variety of ancillary services.