

Meet Our Family Medicine Residents

Lauren Faith, DO Class of 2028

ABOUT ME

Hi, I am Lauren and thrilled to be continuing my medical journey in Family Medicine at Deaconess! I was born and raised in Evansville, Indiana – though I now proudly claim Newburgh as my home (yes, I know, a whole 5 miles away... the big move!). I graduated from Reitz Memorial High School and went on to study Economics at Purdue University. From there, I attended Marian University's College of Osteopathic Medicine, where I earned my medical degree and my love for holistic, community-centered care truly took root.

WHY CHOOSE DEACONESS?

My decision to join Deaconess was an easy one. I had the privilege of rotating with DFMR during my final year of medical school, and it immediately felt like the right fit. The warmth, support, and genuine passion for teaching and learning that radiate from the residents, faculty, and staff are unmatched. It's a place where you're not only trained to be a great doctor, but you're also encouraged to grow into the best version of yourself. Add to that the bonus of being close to my husband's and my families and lifelong friends, the choice became even easier. Giving back to the community that helped raise me is a full-circle moment that I cherish deeply.

HOBBIES/INTERESTS

Outside of medicine, my husband and I love taking long walks and spoiling our fur baby, Cash. Though I won't pretend to be a natural athlete, I love playing golf, sand volleyball, pickleball, and tennis with friends – usually more for the laughs than the wins. I'm also a diehard true crime podcast junkie and a firm believer that no weekend is complete without good food and game nights with family and friends.
